Your Submission to the TPC Review: I consider that any changes to the Tasmanian Planning Commission would fundamentally change the planning system and limit the community's ability to be involved in resource management and planning decisions and processes.
I am concerned that the TPC review will undermine the the role, power and authority of the TPC as an independent decision maker and advisor and substitute it's role with a Minister-centred model of decision-making.
Such a change would effectively undermine due democratic process by potentially facilitating contentious projects, and as such would be an insidious attack on democracy in Tasmania
