

This Bill seems to cover the most important private protection of others re publications in Newspapers and other media. Sexual abuse is already reported when happened. But publishing close explicit details and descriptive acts of personal sex abuse, under ones name or other, should not be seen as educational or used to burden emotionally vulnerable people. Each case is different and it may be necessary for the court to decide if and what content can be published and where.

H.Stevenson