Your Submission to the TPC Review: This email is my submission to the review of the Tasmanian Planning Commission. Please see my comments below.

As a former local government councillor I am very much aware of the important role that the TPC plays in overseeing and regulating the processes of planning and development in our state. I have participated in a number of hearings held by the TPC and have always been impressed by the professional and independent approach of the TPC, and the accessibility it provides to the community to participate in the decisions it makes.

It is important that the TPC have its independence maintained, broadened and strengthened.

Recommendations

- The TPC must retain its capacity to perform its current functions independently of government.
- The TPC's power to act independently of the government should be expanded. The TPC should be given the power to create and amend the Tasmanian Planning Scheme.
- The TPC's governance should be free from Ministerial influence, and no changes should be made that undermine the public perception of the independent operation of the TPC.

It is important that the TPC maintain its function in policy development.

Recommendations

The TPC should:

- Retain its existing role to review and hold hearings on representations, and report to the Minister on draft State Policies and amendments.
- Retain its existing role to report to the Minister for Planning regarding Draft Tasmanian Planning Policies and to amend any planning scheme to be consistent with those policies.
- Restore its role as the body responsible for making planning scheme controls and amendments by making the TPC the decision-maker for State Planning Provisions and removing Ministerial oversight for Local Provisions Schedules. This would provide the TPC with an important role in influencing planning policy.

The TPC should be given the role of developing Tasmania's Regional Land Use Strategies

Recommendations

- Legislation should be changed to give the TPC the responsibility to develop, amend and approve Regional Land Use Strategies with public notice and hearings

It is important that the TPC maintain its function of assessing Projects of State and Regional Significance.

Recommendations

- The TPC must retain its existing responsibility to assess projects of State significance e.g. major projects like Gunns Pulp Mill and Ralphps Bay, and to provide advice and recommendations to the Minister.
- The role of the TPC in assessing and approving projects of State and regional significance through existing processes should not be undermined e.g. through the draft Major Projects Bill.

It is important that the TPC retain its function of Reviewing National Park and Reserve management plans

Recommendations

- The TPC's role in independently and transparently reviewing reserve management plans must be retained and legislation should be amended to clarify that the TPC may make recommendations for changes to reserve management plans.

It is important that the Environment Reporting should remain with the TPC

Recommendations

- The problems with State of the Environment (SoE) reporting identified by the TPC in 2013 (and reconfirmed in 2018) should be addressed and the TPC should continue to produce SoE reports each five years. These reports are vital for a range of reasons, including informing good planning.

It is important that TPC be properly funded

Recommendations

- Properly fund the TPC to allow it to carry out existing statutory roles, including the State of Environment Report and new State Policies.
