Your Submission to the TPC Review: There is a pervasive feeling of unease in the community about government process, alienation from decisions and failure of democracy to deliver to expectations. This is being fed by a clear tendency for an increasingly centralized and authoritarian approach to decision making by government. There are all kinds of excuses - efficiency, excessive red/green tape, jobs and growth, etc, etc; being run up the flagpole by developers and their supporters in parliament that don't understand legitimate opposition to dumb ideas.

It would be a tragedy if this review added to the problem. We need strong, independent and effective processes. Don't weaken them in reviewing the TPC.
